OFFICIAL NEWSLETTER of the INTERNATIONAL TRAINING INSTITUTE

Volume 4 , Issue 9, 13 April. 2011

MESSAGE from the MANAGING DIRECTOR

I would like to welcome you all to ITI in 2011. This year has been an important year with East New Britain distance centre commencing with first intake of distance students.

Lae campus has especially done well in student intake and for it to continue to improve we are in the process of improving the facilities. We hope to introduce more programs in Lae during the 2011 academic year.

Pom campus also has done well in comparison to last year January intake. We have also improved our facilities with the introduction of a new computer lab to cater for students to do their assignments and other work. This lab will have 22 computers and hope to increase it to 30 computers during this year.

We are excited to introduce the diploma in Human Resource Management in June/July 2011. There has been great interest for this program from our students who have completed certificate in human resource management. Currently we have approximately 150 students in total taking the certificate in human resource management. This program is offered both in Port Moresby and Lae Campus.

In 2011 we have started the new committee called "committee for curriculum design" which has been set up to look at future improvements in our program structures and courses. We have two external professional both have a PHD who will review the process and courses. We will also work with Office of Higher education and the industry to give advice to the committee.

In Conclusion, I would like to thank you for choosing ITI and good luck with your final exams.

ITI PITCH IN K20,000 IN POMCA

Article extracted from Peoples Notice Board

Port Moresby Cricket Association is the proud recipient of the K20, 000.00 worth of sponsorship from ITI for season 2011 to 2012 challenge. ITI has been a proud supporter of cricket in Port Moresby since 2009 and another K20, 000.00 for the season 2011 to 2012 is an indication of ITI's commitment to the development of the code of cricket in PNG. The first installment of the sponsorship worth K10,000.00 was handed to the chairman of Port Moresby Cricket Association Taunao Vai at the ITI board room, by the managing director Kumaran Senthayval which was witnessed by officials from POMCA and media personal.

"International Training Institute (ITI) has been a great supporter of cricket in PNG and we want the sport to develop but it is becoming more expensive for individual players because of the equipments that are used in the sport of cricket", added Mr Senthayval.

According to Senthayval most of the players in the competition are unemployed, K20, 000.00 sponsorship will go a long way to subsidize cost in the running of the competition at the POMCA level.

POMCA president Taunao Vai commended ITI for the continuous sponsorship it has given to Pom Cricket since 2009 which has not gone wasted but proved positive with the bulk of players currently representing PNG Barramundis are selected from POMCA.

Vai says, such assistance from the business houses will help the cricket in the capital city with the introduction of the under 13 and 12 competition for the children at an early age trigger the interest of the players form premier division, B grade, C Grade, the woman's competition right down to the juniors competition.

He attributed such financial support by ITI and other business houses who have come aboard to support cricket in PNG has resulted tremendously seen the PNG men's cricket team making it to the top level in the international scene and are one step away for PNG to compete in the 20-20 international cricket event if PNG finish at top two, in their upcoming assignment when they compete with the world cricket League 2 next month in Dubai.

Meanwhile, POMCA is going towards the business of the season with the finals in respective division schedule to kick off in the coming weeks , with the elimination finals with the top teams walking away with the seasons trophies in the Respective categories.

NEW PPC ID CARDS TO BE ISSUED

The ITI management has recently purchased a PPC ID Card printer from Exchanger Card Systems in Brisbane Australia. This is to do away with the outdated manual system and to avoid security issues.

"Customized specially designed PPC card for ITI are currently being produced in the United States with special security features such as embraced ITI logos, bar codes and other features which cannot be duplicated elsewhere" said Mr Kumaran Senthayval, MD of ITI.

The new ID card system will be in use starting next semester, June 2011 and all new and continuing students will be issued with the new PPC ID cards.

The new PPC ID card will be issued free to all registered students and staff members only. The management decided that due to expenses that will incur, a fee of K20.00 will be charged for lost or stolen PPC id cards.

Curriculum committee established

The International Training Institute is in the process of accreditation as an institution for higher education. The Office of Higher Education (OHE) in PNG had done the academic audit in year 2008 and the Office of Higher Education has given two years to make change recommended in the audit report. This accreditation process creates new market opportunities for ITI to offer degree courses. According to the academic audit report that ITI has been requested to improve the current curriculum in line with the higher education standard recommendation.

The committee for curriculum design is established purposely to improve the current curriculum to ensure that our courses maintain a high standard and quality with regard to course structure, content and standing.

Managing Director of ITI Mr. Kumaran Senthayval has appointed the following persons for the committee; External Consultant Prof: Prof. Dr. Gerhard Peters, Körnerstr. 16 B, 33818 Leopoldshöhe - Germany, Dr. Stephen Kikala, Ms Lilly Nason - Industrial representative, Sivanathan Sivaruban - ITI Director of Studies, POM Campus, Jay Joel Aiha - Head of Business Studies, Vivian Edward Acting HOD -IT, Francis Bab - Business Management Lecturer, James Tai - Business Management Lecturer, Johnny Alex - IT Lecturer, Nadarajah Gajentherarathan - Director of Studies, Lae Campus, Tama Wamo - Head of Business Studies - Lae Campus, Sebastine Panda Rhewa, IT Lecturer - Lae Campus.

GOLDEN ROOSTER NOW @ ITI PREMISES

The famous Golden Rooster has recently taken over the dine in, take away, coffee and restaurant service at the International Training Institute's premises located at Scratchley Road Badili.

Previously operated by an Asian, it is now under new management with its' business name Golden Rooster. The variety of food served is of top quality and at a reasonable and affordable price to suit all budgets and comfortable air-conditioned spacious surroundings.

Local take away food shops are a fair distance from the institute therefore staff and students are encouraged to purchase food on campus for their own convenience and safety. Check it out for yourself!!

International Training Institute Opens new lab

THE International Training Institute in Port Moresby has opened a new computer laboratory.

The lab will cater for the growing number of students in the institution, marketing team leader Kalau Marai said.

He said the soaring number of students in both day and night classes, which stands at more than 700, had prompted school into establishing the lab.

According to Marai, internet services will also be connected to ensure easier access for students.

He also pointed out that this would also save students from leaving the institution's premises to gain such services from outside sources which had been a past practice for some.

The new lab currently has 22 new computers and will be used after final arrangements are completed.

The new addition brings the total number of labs to five.

Marai further highlighted that ITI had low entry requirements to allow as much opportunities as possible for students who wish to continue their education.

He said entry requirement for Grade 10 was a pass in English and Maths while Grade 12's were eligible for certificate and initial diploma courses.

The next enrolment will be conducted in June and ITI's next graduation is schedule for July 29.

Lodge owner uses video to promote tracks

By KARI TOTONA

PROMOTING tourist tracks is very important for the country's economic growth, founder of Sevese Miai lodge in Uritai, Gulf, Ruth Tore said

Tore, who had taken the initiative to video shoot track in PNG, was given a boost of K1,500 by International Training Institute(ITI) to fund the Kokoda Track video shoot from March 20 to April 2.

She said because of her love for tracks she was shooting the videos to contribute to the tourism industry in her own way to promote sceneries of tracks such as Mt Wilhelm in Chimbu and the Black Cat in Wau, Morobe.

She thank Chin H Min, Brian Bell, Ports PNG, Bishop Brothers, Tango Trading and ITI for their support and called on other business houses to support her endeavour to promote PNG's diverse beauty to the world.

She told The National the DVD production of the footage were being produced by the Kundu 2 crew of NBC.

She claimed that the PNG Tourism Promotion Authority (PNGTPA) had denied a cheque raised to her name by Culture, Arts and Tourism Minister Guma Wau and said that it had no potential in the rural areas and could not provide funding.

However, she was told to bring the DVD back to PNGTPA to market it for her.

With such responses, she took her own initiative to seek funding elsewhere.

It is understood a single shoot costs K15,000 while it costs K30,000 for the use of experts, potters and trackers.

Tore's lodge in East Kerema is the first of its kind in Gulf which opened last December.

FROM THE REGISTRY CORNER

By Manu Raga, Assistant Registrar

Hi, Everyone and welcome to the brief 2011 Registry Department Segment. Thank you for considering International Training Institute as your place of study.

The Registry Department has the task to register and keep records of candidates or students who are selected to take up studies at the institute. Current and intending students must therefore see the registrar and her officers for the registration and payment process. This semester one intake 2011 was the most tiring, tough, busy and challenging due to the increasing number of students and the resignation of former Registrar Ms Melvina Yanda.

Registry Department is expanding and currently we have 3 new staff who joined me. They are Jennifer Mbabazi from Uganda who was a former student here at ITI and she has been appointed as Manager - Registry and HR, Boio Tito who was a former ITI staff member back in the early 1999 - 2001 is now the Acting Registrar and Maui Vana Registry Officer.

ITI backs youths in Gerehu

The International Training Institute continued its support by donating a K2,000.00 sponsorship to a community based soccer club, Culture United soccer club which all players reside in the Gerehu suburb area, Port Moresby.

ITI Director of Studies, Mr. Sivaruban was onsite to do the presentation on behalf of the institute.

The president of the club, Mr Aronal Numa said the Culture United was founded in 1990 to support young people especially students and community members who are living in Gerehu. The primary purpose is to get young people involved in sports and stay out of trouble, said Numa.

The club pledged to have ITI logo printed in front of the uniforms and their name at the back.

"We believe that we will carry your logo all throughout this year. Most of this young players are students from secondary schools in Port Moresby and we believe that they are your potential clients at your institute as soon as they complete their schools" said Mr Numa

Director of Studies, Mr. Sivaruban presenting the cheque to the players.

Lastly, the Registry would like to remind all students to;

- Complete all necessary fees before Final Exams on 09th to 13th May, 2011
- All students MUST fill in the Graduation Application Form after the Final Exams

Marketing Updates from RAINY LAE campus.

The Lae marketing team members Paul Yama and Albert Watin based in Lae had a five day trip to Finchaffan in the Morobe province to conduct promotions on academic programs offered by ITI.

The team visited schools and institutions such as Dregahaffen secondary, Finchaffan technical school, School of Nursing and the Lutheran Seminary. They conducted seminars to students and teachers. The first promotion was conducted at the market in Gagidu station.

"We got a lot of feedbacks from the general public including the teachers and principals of each schools we visited" said Mr Yama.

ITI Lae campus had a recruitment drive which was conducted by National Rice Distributor's regional marketing manager. A total of seven students were recruited from the certificate in sales batch who are currently studying to work as part time. They will be employed on full time after they graduate.

The marketing team said, Their only aim now is to double the number of intakes for the remaining semesters and will be visiting the highlands region and other parts of Morobe.

Why Choose ITI Corporate Training

By Mr. Gabriel Kaumb - Head of Corporate Training

The increased demand by organisations for customised training and development and associated short courses has seen the development of ITI Corporate Training Department five years ago. The information provided here focuses on the Corporate Training Department and details about how you can access and use these trainings either at the ITI Campus or at a site of your choice.

ITI Corporate Training Department designs to ensure we meet the training and development needs of all of our clients in business, industry and the public sector. We listen to our corporate client's comments and feedback about our courses, before, during and after the training. More importantly, we act on it. So you can be sure that the course or intervention we provide really meets our client's needs.

We know that for training to work it has to be relevant. Our courses focus on providing our clients with skills, plans and knowledge that they can apply back in the workplace immediately. We place particular emphasis on interaction, discussion, high levels of participation and, of course, learning. We are committed to providing courses that are competitively priced and give excellent value for money. Course fees include comprehensive notes and materials with access to the facilities provided by ITI.

Highly rated short courses in Administration and Business like 'Quality Customer Service', 'Time Management', 'Accounting For Non-Accountants 1 & 2' and 'Basic Office Procedures' provide immediate skills upgrade, while computing short courses are designed to greatly enhance skills and knowledge of our corporate clients to be effective, efficient, competitive and productive in their duties and responsibilities.

The administration and business courses are conducted by our facilitator, Mr. John J. Sevese. He is the qualified professional and is a specialist in his subject matter. Mr. Gabriel Kaumb is one of most experience and qualified person in the training field specializing in computing specialist short courses. Our other trainers in POM and Lae are also qualified and with many years of experienced behind them.

Recently in POM new corporate clients came onboard with intensive trainings sessions from one to three days. Some of these new clients are including Dept. of Prime Minister & NEC, Lifu Holdings, Steamships Properties, Bena Construction Ltd, Aviat Social & Sporting Club, and etc. Photos taken during one of the trainings are included for your eyes.

To find out more about any of the short courses - such as availability, delivery, fees, please feel free to call Mr. Gabriel Kaumb or Mr. Collin Iru on 320 2800 Ext. 108.

Students travelled in for graduation

By Mary Kameata

Students who are living out of the National Capital District, who have completed their respective courses through Distance Learning Mode, have an option to decide either to attend the ITI Graduation in person or received their Awards through registered mail.

Those who can afford their own traveling expenses from their own respective provinces normally attend the ITI's Graduation in person.

Mr. Voda Vilik, a distance mode diploma in business majoring in Accounting student who traveled all the way from Rabaul, East New Britan Province while Mr. Sylvester Tefuarani Sione a majoring in management student traveled with his parents and sister in-law all the way from Autonomous Region of Bougainville to attend the Graduation Ceremony at Hideaway Hotel on the 04 of March this year. Syvester's father is the MD of Bougainville Restoration & Development Authority, who made his time available to travel to nations capital to see his son graduate.

Distance learning is a very unique way of earning your desired qualification whilst working or been self-employed anywhere in Papua New Guinea

The academics both the business and IT at POM campus farewelled one of their colleague, Ms Lilly Nason a senior lecturer and head of department - IT.

Ms Nason has been a IT Lecturer for almost 4 years before she was appointed the head of department early last year.

She officially resigned on the 01st of April 2011 to take up her new post with one of the major companies steering the Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) projects in the country.

Currently, acting on the HOD position is Mr. Vivian Edward, who is also a senior lecturer in the faculty of Information Technology.

Nason express her sincere gratitude to the management and staff members for their time and assistance.

Success story from RADA AZ

Hi Readers,

Firstly I would like to thank ITI for offering these courses which are affordable and relevant for Papua New Guineans. The materials used in all modules also suits the level of understanding for Papua New Guineans too. The kind of assistance provided by the distance education division of ITI provided to distance learners is far too good which I appreciated over the period of my studies.

I am now promoted, from Team Leader Credit Management Islands to Manager Distribution Islands based in Kokopo regional HQ under Telikom PNG Limited, Retail Division.

Indeed this is a result of my studies and personal committed to my employer.

Lastly, I would like to thank the CHIEF - Mr Bagelo Gojobu, Lecturer in-Charge of correspondence studies for his kind assistance and support with regards to the assignments and some questions which were not clear to my understanding had been clarified through email.

To you Mary Kameata and Diana Farapo, distance education officers, I also thank you for support & assistance.

Thank You All..

Regards, Voda Vilik

ITI Library updates

By Margaret Tika - Assistant Librarian

The library has become a busiest area at Port Moresby campus since the academic year started early this year packed with students and there is not enough space to cater for the increasing number of students on the Campus. Students ID cards are kept with us Librarians to use the Library books outside the Library, and on the same day return. In the mornings, the students rush to the library to secure spaces. On the other hand, the library has been the coolest place to cool down from the heat of the sun, after walking.

The library has not been opened to the evening class students because from the previous experience were is only limited number of students make use of the library.

A new multi-purpose printer/photocopy machine was bought at the end of last year to provide printing and photocopying service for the students has been quite busy all the time at the library. Definitely, it is a very busy job when you have so many students in queue for photocopying and printing.

A number of new computing and business books have been bought from UPNG bookshop worth K3, 485.00. The total number of book bought were 35. These books are now in use in the Library, the new oxford dictionaries are very helpful to the students and staff now.

The new dictionaries for business and information technology has being very useful in the Library for students and staff. For oxford dictionaries, they have CD-R to be installed into the computers for the students at computer labs.

The Library Database Management is currently being compiled. All the library books are now given their Dewey decimal numbers into the current Seansoftware system.

The arrangement of books on the shelves are according to the Dewey Decimal Numbers Systems as shown here; 000 Generalities, 100 Philosophy & Psychology, 200 Religion, 300 Social Sciences, 400 Language, 500 Natural Sciences & mathematics, 600 Technology (Applied Sciences), 700 The arts, 800 Literature & rhetoric, 900 Geography & history

This Dewey decimal numbers system will be in place soon once all the library book database is completed this month, April 2011.

There is a big challenge in this job and its only being creative and having a willing spirit to learn in the field of Library and information studies.

This semester, the Library started its fundraising drive by selling Digicel flexcards to raise funds to purchase more books for the students to use. Besides fundraising, the management also assisted to buy some more books from the UPNG Bookshop this semester for the Library.

The library's customers for the flexcards are mostly from the students and the staff. Another fundraising for the library will be during the ITI Volleyball Tournament during Easter Weekend, if there is numbers for more teams to register.

International Training Institute will soon have its own bookshop on the Campus in the Port Moresby branch, for students and staff to buy books according to their courses undertaken, research purpose or just for reading only.

We will be working on this to create a booklist of names for the bookshop, if you are interested to purchase books from the bookshop, please see us at the library or contact us through this email address; librarian1@iti.ac.pg If you have any suggestions of improving the library system, please feel free to get in-touch with us. Only way to improve and make a better learning environment is to suggest, develop ideas and work as a team

Website Navigation Tips

Website navigation is the most important aspect to consider while designing a website. The primary aim for effective navigation is get your visitors to stay in your site and also for visitors to easily find what they are looking for easily and quickly. Designing effective navigation can also entice your visitors to try out the other things you offer on your site. In this article we will look at some of the basic guidelines you need to follow while designing the navigation of a website.

Effective Navigation Guidelines

While designing the navigation for your site keep the following points in mind:

> Organized Links

Make sure your links are well organized according to the order of importance. Visitors should be easily able to find what they are looking for under different categories. E.g. All our main links are found on the top i.e. our services, products, portfolio, resources etc. Other interesting links are found on the right of the page. These are common and consistent throughout the site. Finally if the web page belongs to a guide E.g web design guide you will find the related links below the right menu and also at the bottom of the page.

Note: Related links are very important as visitors coming to a particular page will probably be interested in more information you have under the same topic.

> Clear and Prominent

Once you have decided on your navigation links, you need to think of the best place to put them. Navigation should be clear and consistent. Try to design your navigation on the top or on the left as these are the first places our eyes go to. Also locate the primary links high enough on the page so that they are visible without scrolling. Navigation images should be seamlessly integrated into the site design. Avoid putting navigation links at the bottom of the page as visitors will need to scroll right down to see the links. If you like you could put the important links at the top AND bottom of the page just to make sure your visitors don't miss the link.

> Consistent

Navigation should be clear and consistent. The important links of your website should be on every page, in the same location, and in the same sequence. Don't confuse your visitors by putting your navigation links in different places in different pages.

> Easy to understand

Make your links easy to understand and to the point. Usually you won't have enough place to have long links so make use of the space wisely. Visitors need to know where they will go on clicking on a particular link, so make sure your links are understandable or nobody is going to click on your links, which will defeat the purpose of designing a good navigation system.

> DHTML Menus

If you have a large number of links under categories and sub-categories you could use navigation menus to organize your links. There are many cut 'n' paste scripts available on the Net that you could use to create great navigation systems. A favorite resource center is SimplyTheBest.net, you'll find tons of useful navigation menus that are very easy to install on your site.

Keeping these basic points in mind you can go ahead and design an effective navigation system for your site. Take a look at other sites to get some ideas on good navigation techniques! Another good idea would be to use eye-catching visuals and small chunks of information to draw visitors to click on a link.

Learning on the Job

Learning on your own: These self-development remedies will help you build your skill(s).

- Keep in touch: Keep in touch in various ways: phone, face-to-face, mail, e-mail, etc. Ask customers what they need, want, and expect.
- Be ready for the good news and the bad news: Listen and be responsive to legitimate criticism; make a note of the rest. Resist getting defensive and overwhelmed.
- Anticipate customer needs: Meet on a regular basis to develop rapport, relationship, and understanding. Anticipate what they need before they do, and be ready to fill the gap.
- Put yourself in their shoes: Gain perspective from the other side of the fence. Respond to communication in a timely way, and deliver what you promise.
- Arrange and design what you do considering your customers' point of view: Design and manage your interaction from them in, not from you out.
- Create an environment of experimentation and learning: Drive for continuous improvement.
- Look at your own personal work habits: Design your behavior for effectiveness and efficiency. There is always room for improvement.
- Think of yourself as a dissatisfied customer: Do unto others as you want them to do unto you. Study ways your performance is less than stellar, and try to eliminate the cause of at least half of them.
- Think of yourself as a satisfied customer: Consider the ways you perform with excellence, and reinforce or institutionalize them. Study what others do well and incorporate their methods.
- Play detective: Study work flows and processes around you (airports, malls, restaurants).

Note changes you would make or good points you see, and incorporate those principles into your activities.

HAPPY EASTER!

Though we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us or we find it not.

-Ralph Waldo Emerson

In architecture, the beauty is in the line & design. In painting, it is the form & color. In works of fine art, it is the craftsmanship.

Possession of these things brings pleasure to some, but the real joy comes from the enjoyment of their beauty.

The Beauty Survey

By Andrew Mateyak

They say that beauty is in the eye of the beholder, so with this thought in mind I interviewed a few people-male and female, younger and older, and from different backgrounds-to find out what they felt made a person attractive. Here are some of their answers:

What I find most attractive in a woman is when she isn't overly concerned about what others think of her, when she just acts naturally.-Raymund (29)

One way that I judge whether or not a woman is beautiful is if she's smiling and her eyes are happy. If so, then she's beautiful to me, even if she isn't what most people would call glamorous or especially good looking. - Tim (20)

If somebody has a kind and concerned spirit, they're beautiful no matter what their physical features may be. -Melody (21)

My personal definition of a beautiful woman has changed over the years. It has gone from a ravishing young blonde, to a mature, personable woman who is a good conversationalist and has a good sense of humor, to one who is happy to sit with me and watch TV. -Steve (70)

Good looks are part of it, but if a girl is charming, funny, and easy to relate to, then she's beautiful. Or if she's humorous, ready to do things unexpectedly, adventurous, passionate, and caring, then she's attractive to me. - James (17)

They say that the eyes are the window to the soul, and that's true. The first time I met my husband, it was his eyes that attracted me. He had beautiful eyes that reached deep into my soul.-Joyce (46)

A woman's voice is often the first indication of whether or not I will find her attractive.-Jimmy (38)

Kindness, gentleness, positiveness, conviction, and a sense of humor are some of the qualities that make a person beautiful. - Armina (27)

What makes a woman beautiful to me is her spirit-the way she reacts to people and situations around her. -Nathan (24)

My survey was simple as surveys go, but the consensus was clear: Those polled said that real beauty runs deeper than physical attributes, clothing, or cosmetics; it comes from the inside out. I agree, and it seems that's how God looks at it too. "Man looks at the outward appearance," the Bible tells us, "but the Lord looks at the heart." 1 Samuel 16:7
